MURDER

Stranger Found on Parkersburg Bridge with Bullet Through His Head.

PARKERSBURG, April 14 — A murder mystery was found shortly before midnight by J. W. Dean, who was crossing the Nell Run bridge. He came upon the body of a man on the bridge and at once notified the authorities. Investigation showed the bullet had gone clear through the head. No weapon was near, while on the body was no car or other article that might aid in identification. The hat had been purchased from a Wheeling firm the band showed. Miss Gertrude Howers had heard a shot fired in the neighborhood of the bridge, but a peculiar phase is that a Juggy had crossed the structure after that time.

A report was circulated that the body was that of Samuel Province, of the South Side, but the identification was not complete. The man was about 45 and well dressed.

CHAMPION WILL ARRIVE SUNDAY

To Roll a Series of Games at the Gore Alleys Monday.

James Smith, the champion ten pin bowler of the world, who is to appear here at the Gore alleys in a series of exhibition games Monday afternoon and evening, against local bowlers, is appearing in Wheeling tonight in a match game against Louis Siler, of Washington, Pa. Bowldom in Wheeling is all aglow concerning the match and the interest is at the highest pitch with all there pulling for Smith to win as Siler cleaned up the Wheeling bowlers sometime ago for quite a sum.

The champion roller will arrive in

FIFTY YEARS AGO THE CIVIL WAR BEGAN.

Few men of that day are now living. The Penn Mutual, even then was a growing institution, nearly fifteen years of age.

Developing with the country in wealth and resources, it is today one of the greatest financial organizations in America. In 1910 its resources exceeded $150,000,000.

Why not consider the Penn Mutual for your next insurance?

this city Sunday afternoon and will work out on the Gore alleys preparatory to the games here, in the morning. From present indications the greatest crowd which has ever assembled at the Gore alleys in this city since they have been opened, will be present to see this star bowler butcher the pins.

Drake, Carr, Bartlett and Dressbach, the quintet of local bowlers who will each be pitted against Smith in three games each practiced last night, and from the way they rolled it was easy to be seen that they needed the practice if they expected to make any showing worth while against the champion.

Almost all the reserved seats have been sold, there being only a few left and if you are figuring on seeing either the afternoon or evening contest and have not purchased your ticket, you should better secure the same soon. Smith's roller score against Siler tonight in Wheeling will be published in the Telegram tomorrow afternoon and whether he is there may be easily ascertained.
